Get to Know the Saints

As I mentioned in my last article, I'm going to be sharing information about those Saints that have been given the title, Doctor of the Church. As a reminder, this title is given by the Catholic Church to Saints recognized as having made a significant contribution to theology or doctrine through their research, study, or writings. They're kind of super Saints.

First up on the list is St. Athanasius, known as the "Father of Orthodoxy", the "Pillar of the Church" "Champion of Christ's Divinity." Born in 297 in Alexandria, Egypt to a prominent Christian family, Athanasius received a wonderful education in Christian doctrine, Greek literature, philosophy, rhetoric and jurisprudence. He was well studied in the Hebrew Scriptures and the Gospel accounts and the Christian texts which would later be recognized by the Church as the canon of the New Testament.

Bishop Alexander of Alexandria became a strong influence in Athanasius' life. Athanasius became Alexander's secretary in 318 after being ordained a deacon. Around this time, Athanasius wrote his first work, a theological treatise on the Incarnation which is still quoted extensively in Christian theological studies and spiritual literature.

Around 323, Arius, an ambitious priest of the Alexandrian Church, denied the Divinity of Christ, and began spreading word that Jesus Christ was not truly divine, but merely created in time by the Eternal Father. Alexander demanded Arius produce a written statement on the false doctrine. It was condemned as heresy after two dissenting Bishops came forward. Arius and 11 other priests and deacons were deposed, or removed from their office, for teaching false doctrine.

Athanasius, as Alexander's secretary, was present during the great Church debate. Athanasius stood alongside Alexander during the famous Council of Nicaea to determine the matters of dogma. It was at this time that the Nicene Creed was adopted as the Creed of the Church and a worthy symbol of the Orthodox Christian faith.

The early Christian Church, still undivided, rejoiced at the defense of the true nature of Jesus Christ. To this day, Athanasius is considered the great defender of the Faith in both the Orthodox and Catholic Churches. Just five months later, Alexander died and Athanasius succeeded him after being unanimously elected. He was consecrated as the new Bishop of Alexandria in 328 and continued the fight against Arianism. Over the course of his life, Athanasius was banished five times and spent 17 years of his life in exile for the defense of the doctrine of Christ's divinity. However, the last years of his life were peaceful and he died on May 2, 373. He is a patron saint of theologians, and faithful Orthodox and Roman Catholic Christians and hailed to this day as a great Defender of the Faith. His feast day is celebrated on May 2nd.

Until next time, Alan.

A little boy opened the big family bible.

He was fascinated as he fingered through the old pages.

Suddenly, something fell out of the Bible. He picked up the object and looked at it.

What he saw was an old leaf that had been pressed in between the pages.

"Mama, look what I found," the boy called out. "What have you got there, dear?"

With astonishment he answered, "I think it's Adam's underwear!"
